GGI Expands Sales Team

New rep groups and a promotion allow for better service to customers across the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic and beyond

Secaucus, NJ, August 24, 2015: To better serve a fast growing customer base, GGI has added the services of two rep groups and promoted a key member of the sales team. Bud Sherman, who has more than 30 years in the glass industry, 20 of them with GGI, takes over new responsibilities as Director of Fabrication Sales. In addition, the Carlan Group will represent GGI products in the Washington DC area and David Adamson Sales, Inc. will represent New England.

“Architects and designers are increasingly using glass as a key design element,” Sherman notes. “New technologies, equipment and capabilities allow us to do more creative things than ever before, from full-color digital printing to backpainting and switchable. In this new position, my primary role will be educating sales people, customers and the industry about the many exciting ways that glass can be used to enhance the built environment.”

The Carlan Group, established in 2004 by Lisa Carter and Margarita Moylan, represents a broad range of leading contract furniture and architectural product brands. “We are so pleased to be representing GGI,” notes Carter. “They are another company that helps us in our mission to consistently inspire, educate and assist dealers, design professionals, architects, and government procurers to create, update and transform business environments.” They can be contacted at 703.975.3329 or Lisa@thecarlangroup.com.

David Adamson Sales, Inc., established in 2008, provides technical and sales support to a range of companies offering high quality architectural and decorative glass products, spacer systems, laminated glass, curtain walls, glass fabrication machinery, and metal panel systems in New England and upstate New York. They can be reached at 401.255.9074 or adamsondm@hotmail.com.

GGI offers an extensive line of glass products and finishing capabilities from picture frame glass to European specialty products, shower doors to entrance systems, architectural components to oversized glass, and CNC machining to digitally printed curtain walls. Five generations of family ownership, extensive capital investments, and a can-do attitude to logistical and creative challenges have earned GGI the trust of the most prominent, creative, and inspiring glazing contractors, interior and environmental designers, and architectural firms in the country.
